Notes From the Chairman

I write to you now as the COVID pandemic continues to impact our lives even as there appears to be brighter light at the end of the tunnel. We at Continental continue to operate on a partially remote basis, with approximately 50% of our staff in the office at any point in time.

This model has worked seamlessly since we declared our pandemic emergency on March 4, 2020. All of our customers have been served throughout without any interruption or diminution in our services.

This is attributable to our advance planning and testing of our Pandemic Plan and Business Continuity Plan over many years.

It is attributable as well to our incredible management team and employees who continue to work for our customers 24 hours per day, 7 days per week in the face of incredibly challenging circumstances. I continue to be proud and grateful for their incredible commitment and excellence.

2022 BUSINESS CONDITIONS SO FAR

I had reported to you previously that 2020 and 2021 were record-setting years for Continental across all business lines. In terms of revenues, income and net income we outperformed even our most optimistic projections for those years. Our core stock transfer business continues to grow in a meaningful way in all areas, particularly in the community and regional bank space. However, as has been the case for many years, the most significant contributor to our explosive growth has been in the SPAC arena. While in 2020 we handled 243 SPAC IPOs and 59 business combinations, in 2021 Continental closed almost 600 SPAC IPOs and 200 business combinations – simply astounding!

In 2022, we have seen a dramatic reduction in all of the public markets, including SPAC IPOs as well as traditional IPOs. Net result: SPAC revenues have been lower to reflect this new reality. Thus far in 2022, we have closed 70 SPAC IPOs and 78 business combinations.

Significantly, Continental has continued to maintain a more than 90% market share of the SPAC market, which is a testament to our proprietary platforms for handling the business combination/redemption stage and for oversight of our hundreds of trust accounts for SPAC customers. It is also a testament to the expertise and dedication of the SPAC trust services group, led by Fran Wolf, and the business combination/redemption group led by Mark Zimkind.

With SPACs proliferating at an unprecedented pace, they worked night and day with overworked law firms, investment bankers, auditors and proxy solicitors to meet the needs of our customers. The same can be said of our Account Administration group led by Maggie Villani and Henry Farrell. Their team of incredibly dedicated administrators was severely tested by the deal flow, but they have come through with flying colors. All told Continental has now handled more than 1,000 SPAC IPOs since 2018, and almost 500 business combinations!

Not surprisingly, we have hired new, experienced staff at an unprecedented pace, mostly from large agent competitors who have reduced staff as their businesses have been challenged. Indeed, we have expanded our staff by more than 90% in the past two years to best serve our expanding list of clients. Many of these have been added to our Account Administration teams, but many have been hired to build out our Corporate Actions and Reorganization departments. Just as we have unique proprietary platforms for handling trust asset management and business combination redemptions and meetings, so too we now have developed a proprietary platform to handle the often complex business combination and integration process. We are now able to provide unique and unmatched bespoke servicing for these post-SPAC merger closings of significant size, complexity and enterprise value.

However, as you may have heard, all is not well with the SPAC market, the IPO market or the securities markets at large. While deal conditions and market conditions should govern in a free market system, SEC Chair Gensler has declared war on SPACs. Curiously he has not targeted regular way IPOs even though they have been hurt badly as well by the stock markets' fall over the past months. The Chair points to deficiencies in disclosure around business combinations, accounting treatment of SPAC warrants, and reliance on the safe harbor provided to SPACs as reasons to attack them and change rules which have worked well for almost 20 years. In doing so, the Commission ignores the fact that no IPO investor has ever lost a dollar on their investment if they chose to redeem from trust at the business combination stage; this while regular way IPO investors are down over 50% on most IPOs over the past year. The Commission is tasked with protecting the small retail investor, but instead has caused massive losses for those who have invested in SPACs without any real reason.

“ I wanted to take a minute to let you know that you have an amazing Account Admin in Alwyn.

Al went above and beyond to help me and many others several times throughout this process. Al was available seemingly around the clock as we marched toward closing, responding to emails well beyond midnight once it got to be crunch time. His patience and professionalism was very much appreciated. ”

– Bryce Quin, Delwinds Insurance Acquisition Corp

“ Thank you to the entire Proxy Team for all your help with the proxy process and voting results from start to finish during these last few months. It was a pleasure to work with all of you again this year. The Annual Meeting and reception went very well tonight.

We look forward to working with all of you next year. ”

The changes they propose SEC PDF are focused mainly on proposed business combinations where sophisticated PIPE investors and institutional investors are dominant. These sophisticated investors hardly need the solutions offered by the Commission as they have been able to negotiate reasonable terms for their investments as SPACs have continued to evolve into a better model year after year. It is sad indeed that political considerations appear to dominate Commission decisions in this arena, but that seems to be the case.

The result: SPAC IPOs in 2022 have slowed to a trickle and business combinations continue to successfully close, albeit at a somewhat reduced rate. We have more than 500 SPAC IPOs searching for combination partners, although more than 100 proposed combinations have already been announced. Stay tuned.

Two other SPAC related challenges have been advanced by the regulations: one relating to Investment Company Act considerations and the other relating to the Inflation Reduction Act and the 1% excise tax written into that legislation. With regard to the Investment Company Act, notwithstanding that the Commission for the past 15 years has approved public filings for hundreds of SPACs without raising Investment Company Act concerns, the new regime at the SEC has for the first time suggested that SPACs approaching their end of life should not be permitted to invest in assets permitted under the IMTA. Instead the Commission has been providing informal guidance that such SPACs need to put their trust assets in demand deposits, thereby eliminating the investment returns that these SPACs have relied upon and realized previously. There is no clear rule or guidance on this issue from the Commission, but the informal guidance from the staff has had a chilling effect on current SPACs approaching their end of life.

Second, the Inflation Reduction Act passed recently by Congress contains a 1% excise tax on stock buybacks. While this legislation was not intended on its face to cover SPAC transactions (either liquidations or redemptions), Treasury has not come out with any firm guidance. Many SPACs have therefore chosen to hold meetings (either extension meetings or liquidation meetings) to avoid the impending effective date of the tax which is January 1, 2023. I and many other industry leaders have been campaigning through congressional committees and other industry participants in the hope that Treasury will conclude that SPACs are not covered by the legislation and therefore no 1% excise tax will be due. The prospects for success on this issue are muddy at best but we expect more guidance from Treasury and IRS by year end. I will keep you posted.

INDUSTRY UPDATE

In my continuing role as a member of the Executive Committee of the Securities Transfer Association (“STA”) I have reported to you over many years about attempts by our industry and the SEC to attack the fundamental flaws in the proxy plumbing system which has been in place for decades. Issuers continue to be dogged both in terms of excessive fees charged by intermediaries, particularly Broadridge, and the lack of integrity in the current proxy voting system. Issuers simply do not get to communicate directly with their beneficial holders, and over-voting and a lack of pre-mailing reconciliation by banks and brokers severely undermines the integrity of the voting system.

While we worked long and hard with Commissioner Roisman at the SEC to break this decades-old logjam, and there appeared to be real prospects for dramatic change, the new SEC Chair does not appear to be prioritizing change in the current proxy voting system or proxy plumbing. This is disappointing yet hardly surprising with the change in Administration. Now that Commissioner Roisman has resigned, proxy plumbing is no longer even on the Commission’s priority list. Sad but true.

On another front, the SEC recently released proposed rules to move from the current T+2 settlement cycle to T+1 and solicited comments. The Commission also seeks comments on a proposal to ultimately move to a T+0 settlement system. Each of these proposed changes would require significant changes by transfer agents with incremental costs being passed on to issuers. The STA has submitted comments and will submit more in the near future.

I will keep you posted as these proposals move forward.

“ I did a stock purchase for one of the senior gentlemen of the bank just last week and he came in yesterday saying that he already received the original stock certificate via fed ex. Thank you. You made me look good with your swift and accurate transfer. Your attention to detail and timely processing of transfers is greatly appreciated.

Thank you, and your back office staff for this great customer service. ”

HOWARD DANIELSON

Howard is responsible for managing Dividend Reinvestment Plans, Direct Stock Purchase Plans, and Employee Stock Purchase Plans, as well as managing Mail Operations at Continental.

Howard began his career in stock transfer services in 1997, giving him 25 years of experience in the industry. He first worked with a large financial institution, where he quickly worked his way up to various managerial positions within the organization. In his time with the company, he worked on initiatives focusing on automations, risk reduction, and cost savings, as well as depositary receipts, corporate trust, and reorganization.

Howard earned his MBA from Hofstra University in 2006 and joined Continental in March 2021.

ELEANOR NG

Eleanor has worked at Continental Stock since June 2007 in the Stock Transfer Department. She is responsible for the daily processing and settlement of DRS Transfers, reconciling DTC fast balances and confirming them for record dates for dividend payment, and processing co-agent DTC transactions and responding to transfer inquiries.

She previously worked at the Bank of New York servicing SBA loans and administering Stock Option Plans. In her free time, Eleanor enjoys her family and friends, watching movies, and reading books. She has traveled to Asia, Australia, and Italy and would like to explore Europe. Eleanor is a graduate of New York University. She is a dedicated and results-driven professional who values providing her clients with excellent service.

IN MEMORIAM : JOHN REFORMATO

It is with a heavy heart and great sadness that we remember our colleague and friend John Reformato who passed away peacefully at his home in July. John was a consummate professional and served Continental and our customers for over 7 years with dedication and distinction. John was as passionate about his work as he was about sports.

He was an avid golfer and a dedicated NY Yankees, NY Rangers, Pittsburgh Steeler, Boston Celtics and Tarheel fan. John's sports knowledge was as endless as his generosity. John is survived by his wife Melissa of 27 years. We miss him every day, he will always be remembered in our hearts and in our thoughts.

“ For the past month, our team has been preparing for the expiration of the 180-day lock-up period and setting up and funding sub-accounts at CST for our Members. During that time, Gary Chambers was our point person at CST and he fielded dozens of calls from us, walking us through the paperwork and process and guiding us successfully through in record time.

Our member sub-accounts were set-up in 48 hours which must be a record and it all comes down to the flawless and painstaking guidance provided by Gary. I think we wore the young man out, but he really took great care of us and I wanted to advise you to how appreciative we are of the elite level of service we received under occasionally stressful conditions. Thank you. ”

Customer Care Corner

Quality Assurance – Enhancing the Shareholder Experience.

Any company, regardless of industry, has the same competitive differentiator, The Customer Experience (CX). Aside from cost, CX is the main contributor to a customer's decision. CX extends across all of the customer touchpoints; from pre-sale to product to post sale support. CST and our industry, Stock Transfer, is no different. Quality Assurance (QA) is a main contributor to ensuring a positive Customer Experience.

There are several customer touchpoints wherein Quality Assurance is applicable ranging from the website to operations processing to forms and statements to the Relationship Manager and lastly, but not least, the Customer Service Representative (CSR).

An effective QA program for the Customer Service Representatives sets standards and measures CSR performance through Monitoring, and Coaching. As an additional benefit, QA provides coaching to help the CSR become more efficient without sacrificing service. So, all around, a good QA program is a Win-Win-Win!

QA provides coaching to help the CSR become more efficient without sacrificing service. So, all around, a good QA program is a Win-Win-Win!

MONITORING

Telephone calls and emails are reviewed weekly for each customer service representative to ensure the highest level of Customer Service is provided. Two methods are used to tailor growth and development of the CSR. With "Buddy" Monitoring, the Manager sits alongside the CSR while they are actively assisting shareholders.

This gives the Manager the ability to provide real-time feedback and guidance. "Silent" Monitoring is where random calls are selected for quality assurance. The calls and emails are reviewed and scored to ensure all policies and procedures are followed.

COACHING

A session wherein the Manager and the CSR to meet and review calls or emails to discuss and provide positive, constructive feedback. Recommendations are made as needed to improve performance. Coaching has been proven to be the most effective way to enhance a CSR's learning and development.

All of the results from the QA Monitoring and Coaching sessions are aggregated and analyzed. Trends are identified for further enhancements, not only with the CSR but throughout the entire organization. Hence, a strong and effective QA program will always ensure the Customer Experience is optimal.

Abandoned Property

John Ulla, Chief Operating Officer

Unclaimed property reporting, abandoned property reporting, or more commonly referred to as escheatment are all terms associated with remitting unclaimed or dormant assets to the various states/jurisdictions. Escheatment is an unfortunate fact of life for financial institutions and one that comes with many pitfalls if not managed correctly.

When not correctly managed and reported, there can be financial liabilities that can be imposed, coupled with the risk of state audits. These fines and penalties can be material to your annual reviews, findings, and negatively affect your organization not only materially but reputationally. As you may or may not be aware, given the economic situation in many states, unclaimed property accounting audits are occurring more frequently than ever before. It is imperative, now more than ever, to be vigilant and to conduct proper escheatment for all aspects of your organization.

The responsibility for unclaimed property compliance and escheatment for your registered shareholders is generally managed by your transfer agent but be mindful that within your organization there should be a person or persons to manage your other escheatment needs such as general ledger, etc. Because many organizations have multiple business units and may not necessarily have a centralized escheatment compliance unit, it is imperative to understand and address the details necessary for accurate and timely compliance of the escheatment process.

Escheatment Compliance

If you have concerns as to whether your organization is compliant there are many firms that can review and assist you in reviewing your escheatment compliance and assist in developing processes and procedures. Firms such as SOVOS, Laurel Hill, Ryan to name a few. Thankfully, on the registered shareholder side life is simpler for our corporate partners when it comes to managing abandoned property, Continental Stock Transfer as your transfer agent monitors, tracks and performs escheatment compliance for all reporting jurisdictions for your registered shareholders on the transfer agent side.

There are some states such as California that impose heavy penalties to entities that are out of compliance with their reporting requirements. These mandatory interest assessments against assets can be a deterrent for companies trying to get themselves into compliance.

Relief is Coming

Relief is coming to filers with delinquent assets due to the state of California in the form of a long-awaited unclaimed property voluntary compliance program (VDA). On February 16, 2022, California introduced AB 2280, allowing the California Controller to establish a VDA Program.

On Tuesday, September 13, California Assembly Bill 2280 ("CA AB 2280") was signed into law by Governor Gavin Newsom. Prior to the approval of this bill California had long declined to provide a formal or informal unclaimed property VDA program despite its practice of automatically assessing 12% interest on late reported property. The state acknowledges that the 12% interest assessment has been a deterrent to first-time filers and to holders who consistently report but have past due property, from coming into compliance. For holders who find themselves in this category, the establishment of a VDA program is welcomed news.

What is an Unclaimed Property VDA Program?

A VDA provides holders the ability to come into voluntary compliance with a state's unclaimed property law without incurring interest or incurring a reduced interest assessment. VDAs provide businesses a way to recognize their state's unclaimed property exposure and willingly pay any outstanding liabilities and potentially reduce the risk of a state audit. Typically, only companies that have not received an audit notice from the states or one of its proxies can enter into the VDA program. The ability to voluntarily enter into a VDA is removed once a notice of audit is received. There are a fair number of states that offer VDA programs.

These VDA programs vary from state to state but there are some common requirements including:

1. Enrollment process
2. Scoping and analysis of property
3. Quantification of unclaimed property
4. Submission and validation
5. Closing process and documentation

Voluntary Compliance Programs

Companies that have never reported unclaimed property, as well as companies that are currently out of compliance with respect to one or more property types, should consider voluntary compliance programs offered by the states to take advantage of program benefits. Benefits of VDAs include reduction or waiver of interest on past due property and a reduced risk of audit, additionally most VDA programs offer more favorable review criteria and lookback periods than those used in traditional audits and generally take less time to complete than traditional audits. Although most states will not waive the right to audit a holder that completes their VDA program, states do look more favorably upon those holders resulting in a reduced risk for audit.

If you have questions about your corporate compliance firms such as SOVOS and Laurel Hill have teams of regulatory and compliance professionals that can provide further guidance and options to assist you through the VDA process.

“ I've worked with TAs for the last few years, and you are by far and away the best team I've dealt with. Please let me know if there is a review or anything I can fill out to show my appreciation for all your help. ”

UPDATE!

Continental Share Sales Program

Continental Stock Transfer and Trust Company now offers a Share Sales Program for issuers trading on the open market that do not currently have a Dividend Reinvestment or Direct Stock Purchase Plan. Continental provides shareholders the ability to sell their physical stock certificates and/or DRS book position without having to move the share positions to a stock broker.

Sale requests will be processed in batch on a weekly basis and executed at the market price of the stock on the sale date. Checks will be mailed to the address of record. The sale transaction fee and broker commission are paid by the shareholder and there is no cost to the issuer for the Plan. Since implementing the plan in the beginning of June 2022, Continental has implemented sales plans for sixteen publicly traded companies. We continue to explore additional opportunities to add to this list and expect to have significantly more companies enrolled within the next six months.

The criteria for enrollment is fairly simple, you must be a publicly traded entity that is actively traded on one of the major exchanges.

For more information about our sales plan and to see if your company's stock is eligible to be added to our sales plan program, connect with your Account Manager for more information.
